PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION:

This house is an example of the Penn Plan construction. The core constructed of brick c. 1819 is a 2½-story building with a three bays core. The core has an interior end chimney and a small Palladian window in the gable end. There are two gabled roof dormers and a large one-story entry porch resting upon square columns. An addition to the house c. 1933 is clad in stucco. This addition is a 2½ story, two bay element with a cantilevered balcony decorated with an iron railing. A large bay window on the first floor breaks through the gable end of the addition. Many of the windows on the addition are paired. There is also a one-story addition on the rear of the house with a small chimney.

Classification: The alterations on this house make it a Class II resource.
